

How can you improve your security threat position while responding swiftly to actual security incidents? Let us guide you on how to achieve this.

As a security leader, you need to safeguard your organization against the constant threat of cyber-attacks that pose significant risk to the daily operation of your businesses.

You need a holistic Managed Detection and Response (MDR) service – backed by leading security experts – that not only detects threats but also effectively nullifies them.

Download our MDR solution guide

“By 2025, 60% of organizations will be actively using remote threat disruption and containment capabilities delivered directly by MDR providers, up from 30% today.”

Gartner

Our MDR service, underpinned by Microsoft Sentinel, is supported by our experienced team of security professionals across the globe. We are highly experienced across critical domains such as Threat Intelligence, Detection Engineering, Security Orchestration Automation & Response (SOAR), Threat Hunting, and Incident Response.

Based on delivery location, level of complexity, and estimated number of incidents, we are even confident to give you an indicative cost of our cutting-edge MDR service.

 Get your indicative cost today using our Cost Estimator tool

We help you to rapidly reduce business risks

Learn more about Fujitsu MDR on our website